

The Abomination Of X-MASS

by Anthony Gulyas

The Evil Practise Of X-MASS;

Informed Christians have no regard for times and seasons. Certainly, they do not believe in the present ecclesiastical arrangement called X-MASS. First because they do not believe in any Roman Catholic mass at all, but abhor it, whether it be in Latin or in English: the very title and designation Christmas being a Roman Catholic invention and contraction of two words Christ and Mass, so the very term Christmas being an abomination and dirtying of the blessed name of Jesus Christ.

Secondly, obedient Christians find no scriptural warrant whatever for observing any day, as the birthday of the Saviour; and consequently, it's observance is a superstition, because X-MASS is not of divine authority.... How absurd to think that an obedient Christian could worship Jesus Christ in the spirit of the world, with... a deceptive worldly Santa Claus, and a mixed program of sacred truth with fun, deception and fiction.

It is impossible to honor Jesus Christ at X-MASS in the giving of gifts, while the gift, giver and recipient are all in the spirit of the world. Christian charity and gift giving should be spontaneous, from the heart, joyfully, any time of the year, when ever the Holy Spirit prompts us, and not just at X-MASS, to make a good show in the flesh, displaying to our neighbour how wonderful we are, because we know we'll be accepted and loved back if we do so. Even evil heathens know how to give good gifts to their children,

'If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children..' – Luke 11:13a

'Thy princes are rebellious, and companions of thieves: everyone loveth gifts' – Isaiah 1:23a

.... so this is not a demonstration of true Christlike righteousness.

Those who follow the custom of observing X-MASS, follow not the Bible (the only true source of divine authority), but instead pagan ceremonies.

The apostate religionists justification of X-MASS;

It is no part of Christianity or virtue to practice pagan holidays having 'learned the way of the heathen':
'Thus saith the Lord, learn not the way of the heathen.. for the customs of the people are vain: for one cutteth a tree out of the forest, the work of the hands of the workman, with the axe. They deck it with silver and with gold; they fasten it with nails and hammers, that it move not..'

– Jeremiah 10:2a,3,4

The modern man today can see no charity in the independence of objective faith, but only in the recipricity of fleshly policy. Silence is what men today desire, and for the most part, their desire they have.

Martin Luther, for instance, is reputed to have celebrated X-MAS, and to have used the X-MAS tree. While that may be true, it is just as true that he refused to repent of idolatry in other areas of his life also, even arguing vehemently against such as compelled the churches to remove the graven images from the public places of worship.

Certainly, the majority of those who call themselves Christians, in history and in today's apostate religious institutions, have failed to have their 'X-MASS Spirit' X-orcised. Does this mean that we follow the rest of this evil sinful world, like a pack of lemmings.. doing things because others do them, and that's the 'tradition' my parents have handed down to me. None of these excuses will hold any weight to them on judgment day, when all our words and actions will be judged by the Holy Word of God. The apostles & prophets of Old Testament in the Bible are the ones who hold weight and authority, and are the ones we should be listening to, not the commercial department stores, simply because they bombard us and shove X-MASS down our throats continually. Who told you to charge up your credit card to the hilt, so you can't pay off the balance for another three months? It wasn't Jesus Christ or the Apostles, that's for sure. Besides the Bible states that we should owe no man anything, but love, and that we can give any time of year. Yes, you say, but this is a special time when we can get together with family, and have a chance to really show our love to one another. You hypocrite, what happened to the rest of the days in the year. You are supposed to love your family every day of the year, and express your love every chance you get to them. After all, you don't even have the guarantee that you'll be here tomorrow, as it is the Lord God who controls your destiny, and not you.

It doesn't take much to see that the mammon loving, wealth worship, you so royally do glorify, by stacking up the goodies and presents beneath your BAAL bush (X-MAS Tree), is not really about the incarnation of Jesus Christ, but has everything to do with your selfish self centered human love.

Regardless of the truth communicated above, religionists and sinful pagans will justify their worldly X-MAS. Yes, the God of this universe, who created you and me, hates heathen and pagan practices, such as X-MAS, which don't originate in Him, but what He hates more is when lukewarm religionists justify their worldly practices by attempting to back it up with Holy Scripture, such as Colossians 3:16. This verse in the Bible, is a rebuttal to the religious Jews of the apostle Paul's day, aimed at those who tried to sway weak Christians, because of weak consciences, by telling them that they still had to observe Old Testament ceremonial laws and practices. Paul makes it clear that eating, drinking and observing holy days under the New Covenant, would not justify you or put you in a better standing before God. So this verse is addressing legalistic Judaizers, who tried to deceive new Christians by telling them that they still had to observe every last detail of the Mosaic law to have a clear conscience before God. This is so far and remotely removed from this discussion of X-MASS, that the two topics just do not meet or intersect, except at one point, and that is this...

If Old Testament holy days are no longer binding on Christians today, in regards to observing them (remember this is God's holy law we're discussing here), then what in the world did pagan feast days & customs ever have to do with a Spirit filled Christian in the first place?

X-MASS and the story of the Nativity in Bethlehem are mutually exclusive, and have absolutely nothing to do with one another. The traditions of nature and pagan worship found in X-MASS originated in paganism, long before the Nativity and Jesus Christ's incarnation. X-MASS originated in the worship of what was called The Saturnalia and Sun Worship, which all finds its root in Roman nature worship.

Further more, there is absolutely no historical foundation or evidence that Jesus Christ came into this world on December 25th, and as a matter of fact, scholars today are of the general consensus that this date is out, period. Just prior to December 25th though, is the worship of the Sun's solstice changing, which is pagan ritual. In pre-Nativity times, this time before December 25th, was known as the feast of the Saturnalia, which was generally a time of feasting to the point of debauchery, orgies, and appointing someone called the 'Lord of Misrule', who got to do whatever he wanted to for a day, but was murdered at the height of the debauched orgy. It was usually the slave of the household who was handed this dubious role, so as you can see the poor became ruler for a day. Oh yes, many gifts were exchanged in this malaise of feasting and orgying. Does this sound like something that Jesus Christ or the Apostles of the New Testament would sanction or condone?

So why do religionist today so staunchly and wholeheartedly defend X-MASS to the hilt, and fight to the death, to keep their X-MASS traditions. How can Jesus Christ be put into X-MASS, when He never was in it, in the first place? Yet religionist insist, lets keep Christ in Christmas, or put back Christ into Christmas. If you call yourself a Christian and are saying these things, then you had better examine your separation from this sinful world. There is no sanctification without separation. You can not love this world and it's evil ways and at the same time claim to loving and following the Lord Jesus Christ.

Brainwashing Children With Xmas

